Essential Questions to Ask an Adoption Lawyer in New Jersey

There are hundreds of children in New Jersey every year being adopted into loving families. Many children are still hoping to find adoptive parents to provide a permanent home for them. Whether you are seeking a lawyer to help you with a current adoption in New Jersey or you are trying to find a child to adopt, hiring the right lawyer is important. Ask these five adoption questions to a prospective New Jersey adoption attorney to aid you in your search.

1. How many years of experience does your firm have in handling adoptions?

Many types of law firms can handle adoptions. However, not all firms make adoption their primary practice. When looking for a lawyer to handle your adoption in New Jersey, you will be well served to find a firm that is primarily devoted to adoption.

Our firm has had over 25 years of experience handling adoptions. We are well acquainted with helping families grow through adoption. Because adoption is our area of primary concern, we have insights into strategies that lead to successful adoptions.

2. How many adoptions has your firm finalized in that period?

Before you hire a New Jersey adoption attorney, you ought to verify that they have had success in finalizing adoptions. Hiring a lawyer with more experience in this area can make the process more comfortable for the adopting parents, providing peace of mind throughout the process.

Our primary lawyer, Mr. Cofsky, has successfully completed over 1,500 adoptions. In addition, he has represented and advised adoption agencies in various matters of the law throughout the years.

3. What kinds of adoptions does your firm offer?

There are many types of adoptions available in New Jersey, each with their unique complexities. If your adoption is nuanced, be sure to ask specifically about the lawyer's experience in that area.

At Cofsky & Zeidman, we have experience in many types of adoptions, including private adoptions, agency adoptions, post-adoption issues, foreign adoptions and more.

4. What certifications and qualifications does the lawyer who handles my case have?

Looking into the certifications and qualifications of your adoption lawyer can give you insight into their competence. If the attorney you are considering hiring shows excellence in the field, the entire adoption process may be simplified.

Our adoption attorney, Mr. Cofsky, has been very active in the adoption community and has received awards for his service in this area. Here are some of his credentials and accomplishments:

- Led workshops and lectures at many adoption seminars
- Spoke about adoption-related topics on television
- Is the former president of the American Academy of Adoption Attorneys
- Received the title of "Angel in Adoption" by the Congressional Coalition on Adoption in 2005

5. Can I read testimonials of other clients who have had successful adoptions with your firm?

Before you hire a lawyer to represent you in adoption, you'll want to read some testimonies from former clients. These accounts will give you insight into the quality of care and competence of the lawyer from real people.

Our law firm, Cofsky & Zeidman, LLC, has received 5-star reviews from our previous clients. Marco writes:

"I could write volumes praising Mr. Cofsky. An online review is way too short to describe such an incredible attorney. Mr. Cofsky is professional, precise,
